Melissa Stone
Creative Director

Behind every successful stylist is a deep driving desire to learn and grow beyond the fundamentals taught in beauty school. Sojourn believes that journey begins with advanced education that inspires, invigorates and supports hairdressers in mastering their craft. We take responsibility for our role in this process seriously by working with stylists to encourage artistic expression, develop technical skills and build stronger professional relationships. Sojourn educational forums take place around the country and are open to all stylists interested in learning, growing and supporting one another in taking new risks. Come with an open mind and leave with the confidence that comes from collaborating with some of the industry's leading hairstylists.
